Arctic Bases Are Air Force Topic

Bombers Could Strike Across Polar Cap, Then Return

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The air force is talking about forward air bases deep in the Arctic at which bombers could refuel on strikes across the polar cap.

A cautious official reference to this hitherto secret plan for stretching the reach of bombers operating from airfields within the United States came to light today. In a report on plans and money needs for the new heavy bomber base at Limestone, Me., the air force says:

"A typical polar operation might involve aircraft taking off from the United States air base, the staging or topping off of these aircraft at forward bases in northern Canada, Greenland, or even the polar ice cap."

This project may explain how the U.S.A.F. can make good its claim that the huge B-36 bomber can strike virtually all "significant military targets on the earth from bases in the western hemisphere."

The distance from bases within the United States itself to potential targets in the heartland of the Eurasian continent would be beyond the range of even the B-36. However, the new strategy suggested in the report indicates that the missions would operate like this:

A B-36, whose home field was Limestone in the United States, would load up with bombs and a comparatively light load of fuel. It would fly two or three thousand miles to a staging base on the rim of the North American continent, in Greenland or somewhere in the far north. There the bomber would "top off" its fuel tanks (fill them to capacity). That would carry the intercontinental bomber to the target and back to the staging base or to friendly territory beyond enemy territory.

Strategists say the advantages of such Arctic staging bases would include:

(A) Operation of forward airfields with a minimum of personnel and equipment. Only refueling equipment would be needed. There would be no hangar or major repair facilities. The number of men required would be small.

(B) At no time would there be concentration of big bombers at the forward fields (as there would be if they were major airbases) to present a profitable target for an enemy air raid.

(C) The striking reach of the smaller B-29s and B-50s, as well as the B-36, could be extended.

Paltz Still Seized

At noon today state police at Highland reported a large still of the "St. Louis" type had been raided on the Paltz farm, three miles south of New Paltz on route 208. Three men were arrested. The raid was conducted by men from the Alcoholic Tax Unit, Lieut. John Lawson, Sergeant L. Baker of Highland and troopers from Lake Katrine. No details were available at the time The Freeman went to press.

Cairo, Egypt, July 27 (AP)—A Beechcraft airplane of the Mideast Airlines crashed last night en route from Alexandria to Cairo killing six passengers and two crewmen.

Hoffman Says Vote May Mean Success or Failure of Foreign Aid

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The Senate headed into a major battle today over whether the foreign aid program should be required to purchase $2,000,000,000 worth of surplus American farm products.

Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman has told senators the vote on this issue may decide the success or failure of the European Recovery Program in the coming year.

The dispute is over one of five amendments tagged onto the foreign aid bill by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Democratic leaders bent back one of the amendments late yesterday and reluctantly agreed to accept another—one chopping $19,820,000 off the total funds asked for the program. But they insisted on a fight to the finish against the remaining changes—including the one up for discussion today.

"This one would require E.C.A. to spend about $1,500,000,000, and the army another $500,000,000, for surplus farm products. Both agencies would be required to buy commodities in the amount and of the kind listed in their budget estimates."

And if they didn't—the money could not be used for any other purpose.

But lawmakers backing the amendment—including Senator McClellan (D-Ark.), who introduced it—said such a situation never would arise.

"That's the amount of money they asked for surplus farm commodity purchases," McClellan said. "If that's what they needed—then how can it wreck the recovery program?"

The decision to accept a 10 per cent cut in the $4,199,000,000 program was made by the Democratic Policy Committee after Senate leaders had won a four-vote victory over an amendment which would have trimmed $74.

State Assures Farmers They Will Get Cattle Feed

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The State Department of Agriculture moved today to assure farmers in drought-stricken areas of adequate feed for cattle next winter.

Agriculture Commissioner C. Chester Du Mond announced the department had started a survey to determine which sections were short of feed and where there was a surplus.

A report is expected early next week Du Mond said it would show what steps would be necessary to guarantee enough feed.

The report is designed to facilitate creation of a "clearing house arrangement" whereby farmers who need supplies can get them from surplus areas.

Du Mond emphasized the survey was no cause for alarm. He said there were "a great many places where we find the drought has not injured crops."

He explained that the survey was a precautionary step.

During the last 13 years, similar measures have been taken only twice—in 1936 and 1941—both years when dry conditions injured pastures and grain crops.

Appeal Is Made For Special Nurses

New York, July 27 (AP)—An emergency appeal for special nurses to deal with a rising number of infantile paralysis cases was issued today by hospital Commissioner Marcus D. Kogel.

Dr. Kogel acted as 19 new polio cases were reported in an officially described "mild epidemic" in New York city. The health department put the number of cases since January 1 at 247.

The hospital commissioner said he did not want to frighten the public or overemphasize the seriousness of the outbreak, but he added:

"We do need nurses badly to take care of the increasing number of polio cases and I appeal to every nurse who can give full time or part time to help us out in this emergency."

Nurses caring for the polio victims will get $30 a month more than the pay for general duty nurses, Dr. Kogel said.

Board Orders Steel Workers' Officers To File Affidavits

Action Follows Speech by Murray, One of Strongest Against Signing

New York, July 27 (AP)—The international executive board of the C.I.O. Steel Workers Union today unanimously directed the union's officers to file non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley Law.

The resolution adopted by the board said—"The board directs its entire membership to the finished task of repelling the Taft-Hartley Act and restoring the Wagner Act with improvements designed to safeguard labor's basic rights."

However, the resolution added that in order to safeguard the interests of the membership and to go forward with the organization of the unorganized within our jurisdiction, the board directs all the union's international officers and officers of local unions designated by top officials to sign the non-Communist affidavits.

The resolution also said "We further direct the general counsel of this union to continue to prosecute test suits challenging the constitutionality of the 'illegal provisions' of the Taft-Hartley Law."

Murray has insisted all along that the Steel Workers Union is free of Communist influence, but he has asserted that it objects in principle to a requirement for union officers to sign such affidavits.

A union spokesman explained that the steel workers could not take advantage of the election procedures of the Taft-Hartley Act unless they complied with the affidavit requirement.

This played a major part in the decision to reverse the union's stand, the spokesman said.

The board acted on the day before the union is to press its case for wage increases, pensions and insurance benefits before a presidential fact-finding panel.

British Bid For More Aid Serious

Secret Note Requesting Additional Dollars From U. S. Stirs Up Other Nations

Hits Marshall Plan

England's New Proposal Is for 40 Per Cent More American Aid

Paris, July 27 (AP)—Britain's critical dollar shortage has exploded into an economic crisis for all the Marshall Plan countries.

The unexpected British request for $624,000,000 more American aid than had been tentatively allotted to her, broke like a bombshell among the other countries.

This was especially true since the others had become resigned to a slash in available funds.

Leaders of the Democratic party in the United States Congress agreed yesterday to an appropriation of about 10 per cent below what the European countries had hoped to receive.

One French official said yesterday the British request "could break the Marshall Plan wide open."

An American economist commented that the other European nations "will never stand for it (the British request)."

Secret Note

The British request was transmitted Saturday in a secret note to the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (O.E.E.C.). This is the organization which splits up the Marshall Plan funds.

Contents of the note leaked out to the press yesterday.

The British said revised calculations showed the sterling area would have a dollar deficit of $1,547,000,000 for the year starting July 1. It implied that Britain would need that much dollar aid or would have to cut its imports and undergo a drop in living standards.

For 1948-1949, Britain received $1,239,000,000. When the request originally was submitted for 1949-50, Britain estimated she would need $1,114,000,000. She pointed out that this was a 10 per cent cut from the previous year.

The American Economic Cooperation Administration, in a general scaling down of all requests, reduced Britain's share to $832,000,000. This amount was based on an American appropriation of $4,566,000,000.

Congress has trimmed the amount still further and prospects are for an appropriation of less than $4,000,000,000.

Asks 40 Per Cent Hike

If Britain's newly proposed request were granted it would mean that she would be getting about 40 per cent of American aid.

It also would mean other European countries would have to give up dollars to help Britain. Since the shares of all nations must be trimmed in line with the reduced American appropriation, it was considered unlikely that they would be willing to make any such sacrifice.

The crises arises because all decisions of the O.E.E.C. must be unanimous. If Britain should hold out for a bigger share in the face of the greatly reduced number of dollars, she might wreck all hope of real cooperation.

Britain's request is $443,000,000 over her original estimate of her needs and $642,000,000 over the amount budgeted by the E.C.A. for the British.

Poll Tax Bill Is Passed

Senate Might Abandon Measure

Washington, July 27 (AP)—An anti-poll tax bill was laid today on the Senate's doorstep, with indications that it would be abandoned there.

A 273 to 116 House vote sent it over, ignoring arguments by southern opponents that it and other civil rights bills are likely to bolster the Ku Klux Klan.

It was the fifth time in less than ten years the House has gone through the formality of passing such a bill. Four times previously the Senate has refused to consider the bills in the face of threatened filibusters.

The filibuster threat was raised again as the House passed the bill late yesterday.

"The bill has about as much chance of passage in the Senate as a bird-size snowball has in blades," said Rep. Wheeler (D-Ga.), who opposed it. A filibuster, if nothing else, will stop it, he added.

Southerners tried to filibuster it off the House floor but House debate limitations blocked them.

after two days. In the Senate debate can go on and on.

Should the Senate reverse precedent and pass the bill, opponents said, one immediate effect will be for the southern poll tax states to order split ballots for future elections.

Under this procedure, candidates for federal office would be listed on one ballot and candidates for state and local offices on another.

A voter who has paid his poll tax would get both ballots, while the voter who hasn't paid would get only the federal ballot.

The bill applies only to primary and general elections for president, vice-president and members of congress. It doesn't effect strictly state and local elections.

It says that payment of a poll tax shall not be a condition that must be met before a person otherwise qualified can vote in a federal election. Such a condition, the bill states, is "an impairment of the republican form of government."

Red Paper Sees Political Motive

Excommunication Decree Shows Pope Displeased at U. S., Is View

Rome, July 27 (AP)—The Communist press reacted quickly today to the interpretation by the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, of the recent excommunication decree of the Roman Catholic Church. The Communist said the interpretation demonstrated that the decree was inspired by political motives.

L'Osservatore yesterday printed an editorial interpretation of the decree of July 13, saying it automatically excommunicated those professing "anti-Christian and materialistic" concepts of Communism while serving as a stern warning to those who favored Communism without embracing its basic doctrine.

The pro-Communist newspaper L'Unita said that Pope Pius XII, dissatisfied with United States policy, had taken the lead in the ideological war against Communism.

"After a long phase in which the policy of the church was in a state of confusion, the Vatican Department of State, today the Pope has taken over the ideological initiative, just like his predecessors did in past times whenever they lost their political confidence in this or that emperor, ancient or modern," the newspaper said.

These said confusion had resulted from the Vatican decree and indicated it thought L'Osservatore's restatement was aimed at such Catholic commentators who had minimized the scope of the Vatican order. The newspaper then charged that the Observator's interpretation showed clearly that the decree "was born on a political basis and has strictly political aims."

The Communist Party newspaper, L'Unita, said the Observator's interpretation "proved the confusion reigning in the clerical field since the publication" (of the decree).

Observators took pains yesterday to say that the decree had no political motives. It said "it is superfluous to absolve of any political scope a document in which religious motives are repeatedly and clearly indicated."

In its interpretation L'Osservatore said Catholics who support Communism without adopting its basic doctrine are not excommunicated but it warned them that aid to Communism is considered a grave sin. It did place within the scope of the excommunication those Socialists who collaborated to further the aims of the Communist Party—the left wing Socialists.

A Vatican informant said today L'Osservatore's editorial was intended only to clarify the decree and not to indicate any feelings suit against Mrs. Estelle

Denies Attack, Declares She Will Stand for Things She Thinks Are Right

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, denying any "bias against the Roman Catholic Church," said today she would "continue to stand for the things in our government which I think are right."

She made the statements in a letter to Francis Cardinal Spellman, who assailed her last Friday in a letter for a "record of anti-Catholicism."

"I assure you," wrote Mrs. Roosevelt, "that I have no sense of being an 'unworthy American mother.' The final judgment, my dear Cardinal Spellman, of the worthiness of all human beings is in the hands of God."

The controversy stemmed from Mrs. Roosevelt's opposition to federal aid to parochial schools. Cardinal Spellman said Mrs. Roosevelt aligned herself with backers of the Bardeen bill in her June 23 column and two others. The Bardeen bill would permit federal aid only to public schools. Mrs. Roosevelt mentioned Cardinal Spellman's opposition to the Bardeen bill in her column.

In New York, a secretary to the Cardinal said there was no immediate reply to his letter of last Friday. The Cardinal said "I shall not again publicly acknowledge you."

Mrs. Roosevelt wrote the Cardinal:

"I have no intention of attacking you personally, nor of attacking the Roman Catholic Church, but I shall, of course, continue to

Local Resident Burned by Acid When Cars Crash

Florence Singel, 17 Josephine avenue suffered an unusual injury in an automobile collision at St. James street and Clinton avenue last night when acid from a car battery inflicted first degree burns of the left leg according to the police.

Milton Winnie of Stony Hollow, whose car was involved, suffered a double fracture of the left arm, was treated by a doctor and later taken to Kingston Hospital in a patrol car.

The report at 10:04 p. m., said that a jeep owned and operated by Alfred Singel, 17 Josephine avenue was in collision with the Winnie sedan at the intersection. Florence Singel was riding in the jeep which was headed west on St. James street. The other car was traveling north on Clinton avenue.

Officer Francis Fagan and Special Officer Thomas Lawyer, who investigated, reported both vehicles badly damaged.

Atlanta Judge Wounds His Opponent in Legal Actions

Atlanta, July 27 (AP)—An Atlanta judge early today shot down a lawyer, his opponent in a tangle of divorce suits and other legal actions.

At about 2:30 a. m., police reported, Fulton county Civil Court Judge Robert Carpenter, 44, pulled his car alongside one driven by Attorney John Lockwood, 53, and fired at him five times with a pistol.

One shot wounded the lawyer in the face. He ran from the car and tumbled into a muddy, 40-foot deep hole. A hospital later reported his condition was fair.

Carpenter and Lockwood were former business associates, but in recent months had become bitter opponents in nine court actions.

The judge was sued for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Helen Carpenter, who charged cruelty. She also filed a $100,000 allegation of adultery suit against Mrs. Estelle

Reporter Gets No Reply to Query About Red War Preparations

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson appeared today to a balking Congress today to suspend judgment on the $1,450,000,000 foreign arms bill until all the evidence is in.

Acheson told a news conference that points raised on the program by several members of Congress are sound in theory but that they talked in a misapprehension of the facts.

Evidently referring to the suggestion of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) that only an interim plan should be adopted now, Acheson said it is a good idea to have an interim program.

But, he declared, it is exactly what the administration has proposed.

The evidence of which Acheson spoke will be presented to Congress beginning with his appearance before the House Foreign Affairs Committee tomorrow.

Discussing that appearance, the secretary refused to answer directly a reporter's inquiry as to whether the United States Government has information "that the Russians are actively preparing for war."

Acheson said that was what he called one of those loaded numbers.

If he replied yes, the reporters would make a lot out of that, he said, and if he replied no, they would make a lot out of that; so his decision was to make no comment at all in direct response.

Even in advance of the detailed outlining of the program, Congressional pressure was beginning to pile up against Secretary Acheson to whittle down his request.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who wants stop-gap military aid, said he had told the State Department "the facts of life—that if I can't get a $1,450,000,000 request through this Congress, I won't get it."

Senator Dulles (R-N.Y.) came away from an hour's talk with Acheson unshaken in his view that only a token arms aid program ought to be started now. He wouldn't comment on Acheson's reaction.

Meanwhile, an influential Democrat who didn't want to be quoted by name, predicted Acheson will get critical treatment when he appears before Senators.

This Democrat said the Secretary of State didn't consult Senators about the proposal in advance but accepted the advice of foreign diplomats on their country's reputed arms needs.

NEIGHBORS KNUCKLE DOWN—After appealing repeatedly to the highway department to resurface their street, the 21 families living on this St. Louis County, Mo., suburban street decided there was only one course of action. They would fix it themselves. They pooled the money and muscles necessary and dug in. Here, the men of the street, mostly young veterans, spread part of the 40 tons of rock they bought to fill in the gaping holes, which, they say, have broken auto springs and caused blowouts.

Queens Gets Second State Housing Project

New York, July 27—State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stiehm today announced his approval of an application by the New York City Housing Authority, of which Gen. T. F. Farrell is chairman, for financing by the state of the construction of a low rent housing project for 400 low income families and the clearance of substandard housing in the Flushing area of Queens. This will be the second state-financed low rent housing development in Queens. The first, Astoria Houses, is well along in construction with 480 of its 1,104 apartments completed and occupied.

The state will lend approximately $5,300,000 for construction of the Flushing project and will pay cash subsidies up to $185,500 annually to help keep rents low. Present estimates indicate that the rent per room per month will be $6.98, including heat, light and gas for cooking. Veterans will be given preference in the new homes.

Liberals Name Sullivan For Feinberg Post

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—John H. Sullivan, a dairy farmer, will be the Liberal Party candidate for the State Senate seat formerly held by Benjamin F. Feinberg of Pittsburgh.

Sullivan, who lives at Queensbury, Warren county, announced last night that he would run in the November election.

Feinberg, who was Republican majority leader in the Senate, resigned to become chairman of the Public Service Commission. He had represented the 38th district continuously since 1933.

The G.O.P. candidate in the predominantly-Republican area is expected to be Assemblyman Henry Nedde of Whitehall. Democrats have not announced their nominee.

The district comprises Clinton, Essex, Warren and Washington counties.

Olds Predicts Less Business for Steel

New York, July 27 (AP)—The chairman of the nation's biggest steel producer—Irrving S. Olds of United States Steel Corp.—foresees declining business for his company extending through the rest of 1949.

His prediction was made after the corporation had reported 1949 sales and shipments of products at the highest level for the first half of any year in its history. Net income for the past six months was the highest since 1929.

The figures were issued as a presidential fact-finding board began laying plans to start hearings here tomorrow on the C.I.O. Steelworkers' demands for wage increases, pensions and group insurance.

Olds told a news conference late yesterday that new steel orders had been declining for some time; that they would not be down too much in the third quarter but would dip further in the fourth quarter.

"Where we'll strike a leveling off or balance, I don't know," he said.

He said the order backlog was off 25 per cent from three or six months ago and represents about 3 1/2 to 4 months' business at the present rate of shipments.

Although U. S. Steel plants are scheduled to operate this week at 83.8 per cent of rated capacity, Olds said the third-quarter average might be expected to run about 75 per cent.

The corporation reported its net income for the second 1949 quarter was $44,123,595, equal to $1.45 a common share, and for the first half $94,052,265 or $3.12 a share. In the first six months a year ago net income was $53,443,018, or $1.56 a share.

Products and services sold in the six months ended June 30 totaled $1,311,838,837 and shipments were 10,767,037 tons of steel products—both records for any first half year.

Helping set these marks was maintenance of a high operating level—89.8 per cent of rated capacity—during the second quarter, following a rate of 101.5 per cent in the first quarter.

TALKING INTO DEPRESSION

"As a nation we cannot afford to become economic hypochondriacs because a country, like an individual, can worry itself sick."

This and a lot more talk like it came recently from Charles Luckman, president of Lever Brothers Company, the big soap and food products maker.

Always a dynamo, Luckman was whirling at his highest pitch as he outlined for Americans the key reasons they should stop quaking with fear over prospects of a depression.

He cited 59,000,000 workers on the job, $200,000,000,000 in liquid savings and an estimated $215,000,000,000 total personal income for 1949.

"It would seem preposterous that anyone could manipulate these figures and come up with an answer that equals disaster," he said. "Yet that is precisely what many Americans are doing."

It's true. And sad and a bit ironic, too. Not many months ago the big cry was: "Let's halt this dangerous rise in prices." Now we've done it and the resulting downturn has us scared stiff.

For a long time we'd been breaking more business records than we had any right to expect we could. Now, just because we've slacked off from that smashing pace, the attitude of many is that we're heading for ruin. Businessmen, politicians, commentators, citizens of every walk nervously await each august announcement from high places on-where we stand.

Luckman will have done us a service if his talk at Los Angeles helps to shake us out of this silly frame of mind.

His advice, naturally was directed most pointed at businessmen who had grown accustomed to a plush state of affairs and were shocked when those conditions vanished.

Sales managers, vice presidents and presidents have shiny pants from hatching profits on cushioned chairs," he said. "Let's go out and sell goods."

A lot of us who aren't executives have had things pretty flat since the war ended and maybe we, too, have shiny pants. Certainly it's foolish for us to sit around expecting the private enterprise system to prove itself to us through thick and thin. It can only work if we make it work. So if we can just stop trembling long enough, maybe we can get the jobs done that will keep the economy going smoothly.

KNOW HOW TO 'GET OUT THE VOTE'

Italy's lawmakers went slightly out of bounds in registering formally their enthusiasm for the Atlantic Pact. Only 469 members of the Chamber of Deputies voted but 546 ballots were cast in the first vote.

Somebody over there apparently has been getting advice from kinkfolk over here who are familiar with our big city election methods.

Or maybe the Italians heard about that caucus of Texas Democrats at the 1944 national convention in Chicago. After one important poll, the delegation leader announced:

"We'll have to vote again. And this time I must ask that only delegates and alternates participate in the balloting."

HOW ABOUT 'LONGEST TRIAL'?

A reporter noted that a certain woman who testified in the New York trial of eleven Communist leaders was the "tallest witness" yet to appear on the stand.

It's that kind of a case. Inevitably, one of these days there'll be a report on the "shortest witness" and then perhaps "the first witness with a goatee," and so on.

The trial has run six months now and forecasts are for another half year. So it wouldn't be too upsetting if some enterprising merchant should offer a handsome door prize to the first spectator through the courtroom portals on the 250th day of the proceedings.

THE CHRISTIAN CONTROVERSY

Being neither a Catholic nor a Protestant, I recognize in the current controversy among Christians, not only in this country but throughout the world, a menace to our civilization, an undermining of our way of life, an invitation to Marxian amorality to fill a void. It might perhaps be said conversely that the controversy is, in itself, an index to the vitality of Christianity, as men would not quarrel over or strive against what is no longer important. The danger, however, is that in the quarrel among religions and sects, often it is not the particular groups that are being attacked, but the target is God; the object to be eradicated is moral law; and the oncoming generations are fed the poison of materialism and immorality, food which, to those who are without moral or spiritual discipline, can be sweet as manna.

The Barden Bill now before Congress is part of the Christian controversy. The bill provides a vast program of federal aid to state education without regard to the necessities of any particular state. It definitely discriminates against all but state schools. Its assumption is that government money should, for all purposes, go only to government schools and that those children who are sent to Catholic, Lutheran, Jewish or other parochial schools or to other private and independent schools do so without benefit of government aid. No mention is made of the fact that parents who send their children to other than state schools also pay taxes to pay for the state schools and that what taxes are to be spent under the Barden Bill are, in part, contributed by the 26,000,000 Catholics in this country through federal taxes as well as by others who do not send their children to government schools.

The bill, while aimed at the Roman Catholic Church and its school system, attacks the American child. For it ought to be an axiom that a benefit provided any child under the law ought to be available for all children. If the law gives a child a bottle of milk or a drink of orange juice each day, any American child, no matter what his parents select, should be provided with milk or orange juice. No American child should be made deliberately underprivileged by act of Congress. No child should grow up under the stigma of secondary citizenship because of the faith of his fathers.

Throughout the world a controversy now rages between Marxian and those who believe in God. Hitler focused his religious antipathies upon the Jews. He sought to destroy them as a religion. Hitler was also anti-Catholic and anti-Protestant because he wanted the Germans to regard him as a man-God and he hated the competition from heaven.

The Communist challenge to God is deeper. Their Marxian philosophy, which forms the basis of their materialistic-slave society, rejects the concept of the inalienable rights of the individual man—which are beyond the authority of the state. The Christian and Jew and Moslem—concept that God created man and inspired him with the Holy Spirit, and gave him a soul which is indestructible and which will withstand any force of man and the state set against it, is an idea that can destroy the autocracy of Stalin and the slave concepts of Sovietism.

So they fight religion as such and they fight it everywhere and over every issue. In Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, it is easier to fight Catholics than Protestants. In the Ukraine, Lithuania and Poland they have already fought the Jews. In Germany they will, when they are ready, fight Protestantism. It does not matter to them what the faith is called—they fight God.

In the United States, the battle is disguised. They discover the normal disagreements among the believers in God and account for them. Thus, they have developed 50 years to establish anti-Semitism in the United States—and many Jews and Jewish organizations, some wholly innocent, become their dupes to their own damage. They are now engaged in accentuating the cleavages between Catholics and Protestants—and both may become so bitter in the controversy and so vindictive and vituperative as to forget that the target is God—in whom both believe.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EARLY OPERATION IN APPENDICITIS

Before appendicitis was known to be an inflammation of the little worm-like attachment of the intestine, it was called inflammation of the bowels and while some recovered, many died. Later, when appendicitis was recognized there was little doubt in the physician's mind as to whether to operate at once or wait a day or two to see if the patient might get better and thus avoid the danger of operation. Then followed a period in which research physicians and surgeons spent much time gathering information from surgeons everywhere as to the best time to operate, if at all.

After gathering all possible information, the physicians and surgeons of Philadelphia a few years ago agreed that, for a certain definite period of time, they would try to wait in all cases of acute appendicitis within the first 36 hours after the appearance of the symptoms, the family being advised not to allow patient to eat any food or take a laxative, once the symptoms occurred. The result of this Philadelphia experiment was that the death rate from appendicitis, due to early operation was cut to a fraction of what it had been. Other communities now follow this same method of treatment.

Not only in this country but in other countries early operation in acute appendicitis is the new rule. In Norway Medicine, Dr. Morton H. Giesing reports 190 cases of appendicitis, in which appendix had burst (perforated); treated by operation. In 119 cases with perforation and a small amount of peritonitis (inflammation of tissues surrounding the appendix) there were no deaths. In 49 cases with considerable peritonitis in the right side of the abdomen there were 14 deaths. In 22 cases of perforation with a great amount of peritonitis there were 2 deaths. This report covers all the cases of appendicitis brought to Sore Sumner hospital from 1938 to 1946, since no patient was rejected as too weak for operation.

When we realize that the death rate practically everywhere in acute appendicitis is now only about 1 in 200 where early operation is performed, and is only about 3 in 200 where the appendix has burst and is packing pus in the surrounding tissues causes that dangerous condition peritonitis, we may well be proud of our physicians and surgeons, and have less fear of operation.

Committee on the issue of communism among Negroes.

He declared his belief most Negroes are patriotic, democratically-minded Americans who would stand with their country in war. This was in contrast to the statement of Paul Robeson, Communist Negro singer, that people of his race would not fight against Russia.

Robinson did not stop there. He went on to remind the committee that Negroes were aroused about racial discrimination long before Communists snatched up the issue, and that they would stay stirred up until something genuine is done about it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Last spring damning accusations were made in the House of Representatives impugning the patriotism of high defense officials regarding the airplane in which the nation was placing much of its confidence—the B-36.

The secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, and the secretary of air, Stuart Symington, it was charged, had ordered the B-36 because Johnson had previously been employed by Floyd Oidium, manufacturer of the B-36, while Symington had been wined and dined by Oidium. It was also alleged that Symington's former company—Emerson Electric of St. Louis—had profited unethically at the expense of the taxpayers in manufacturing gun turrets for the B-36.

These charges naturally shake the confidence of the country in its high officials responsible for national defense. Several weeks have passed and it remains important to know what was behind these charges and whether they were true.

This column can now state that the origin of the congressional attacks was an anonymous smear sheet first circulated by Glenn L. Martin, president of the Glenn L. Martin Co., of Baltimore, well-known manufacturer of navy planes.

The memo viciously attacking Johnson and Symington was shown by Martin to other airplane manufacturers who also wanted air force business, and who were being left out in the cold because the air force had switched to the B-36. Later the same memo, with some additions, turned up in Capitol Hill, where it obviously became the source material for the attacks delivered by Congressman Jimmy Van Zandt, Pennsylvania Republican, a naval reserve captain.

The wording of Van Zandt's speech was somewhat different, though in places it was almost identical.

For example, the smear memo said: "In 1947 the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation was in financial straits. Its principal asset was a contract for one hundred B-36 aircraft. There was doubt that the contract would be completed."

In contrast, Van Zandt said: "In 1947 the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation held contracts for 100 B-36 bombers. At that time there was considerable doubt as to whether the contracts would ever be validated."

Glenn Martin's tactics in talking to other airplane manufacturers failed. They did not join him. Meanwhile, the reason for his desperation can be found in his own ledger sheets. In 1948 his company showed a loss of $16,710,762, on top of which it still owes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation $16,372,521, payable in September 1950. The company's financial statement also contains this illuminating disclosure:

"An operating profit from military sales was offset by losses in the commercial airplane program. In other words, Martin's only profit was War Assets Office sale, and he lost money on non-government business."

Since all this happened, Glenn Martin has been quietly eased out of the presidency of his company into the less active job of chairman of the board.

Symington's Record

One of the statements made by Congressman Van Zandt was that Symington's Emerson Electric Corporation had been renegotiated on its B-29 gun-turret contracts in 1948 by Col. Franklin Wolfe of the air force, who whitewashed the company, thus costing U. S. taxpayers $20,000,000.

This was a rumor which this columnist heard in 1945, at the time Symington first entered the government as War Assets Administrator. Upon investigation, this columnist became convinced there was nothing to the charge. Symington had a fine record at Emerson Electric of which he can be proud.

Furthermore, Congressman Van Zandt's smear is obviously false since Colonel Wolfe retired from the army in 1945, so he could not have renegotiated the Emerson contract in 1948.

Admirals Are Transferred

Interesting to note is the fact that Vice Adm. A. W. Radford, former deputy chief of naval operations in charge of air, and a vigorous crusade against the B-36, has been moved out to Hawaii.

Also, the navy's former press chief, Rear Adm. Edward Ewen, another tireless propagandist against the B-36, has been moved to Guam—not an active area for press relations.

Also interesting: Glenn Martin's front man and lobbyist on Capitol Hill was Harold Mosher, congressman from Ohio and a Republican. Mosher is a close friend and distant relative of Congressman Clarence Brown, also of Ohio, one of the leaders of the Republican Party in the House. Significantly, the first congressman to attack the B-36 was lobbyist Mosher's cousin, Clarence Brown.

Another rooter for Glenn Martin has been Senator Tydings of Maryland. He has talked to the air force about buying planes from Martin, who is one of his constituents.

Van Zandt Attacks Again

Not content with the first smear, Congressman Van Zandt renewed the attack in a recent speech which the press apparently missed. Never delivered on the House floor, it was quietly inserted in the appendix of the Congressional Record. In it, Van Zandt himself refers to the mysterious memorandum.

There was also the mysterious memorandum that was seen by many members of the House, including the gentleman from Georgia, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Van Zandt said.

Another unpublished phase of the B-36 battle were photostats circulated on Capitol Hill by naval officers.

These were copies of articles appearing in Aviation Week by Harold Saxon, and the British magazine, Aeroplane, by A. Marthson, plus the British magazine, Flight, by Favonius. All three, however, were actually written by the same man—Stanley Harold Evans, a British engineer.

The British have been seeking a market for their airplane engines in this country. And since they build better light engines than we do, it would be to Britain's advantage for the United States to build more small planes. Instead of pooling so much of our money on the B-36.

At any rate, these articles attacking the B-36 were photostated by the navy at the taxpayers' expense and distributed by navy officers to congressmen.

Public Denunciation of Russia Is Sensational Part of Assistance Documents

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 27—The most sensational statement in the official documents just issued by President Truman and the Department of State concerning the military assistance program is not that relative to the amount of money or equipment to be furnished other nations but the public denunciation of Soviet Russia as the enemy of the free nations of the world.

The documents formally pronounce Russia an aggressive state and charge that the Soviet Union cherishes plans for further aggression.

One can search his memory for a single instance where such a public pronouncement and assembly of armed might against an aggressor has not led to war.

The United States apparently decided to discard all the forms of diplomacy and to call Russia publicly the enemy against which the arms program is designed.

Whatever caution may have been exercised in the wording of the North Atlantic Pact, which named the nations, the message transmitted by President Truman to Congress and the paper given to the press as representing the viewpoint of the Interdepartmental Foreign Military Assistance Coordinating Committee mince no words. Thus the Department of State, through which the committee's document was officially published, says:

"Our support for this concept of the United Nations continues, but, unfortunately, the great-power harmony we hoped for has not materialized. Instead, the political aggression and expansionist aims of the Soviet Union, abetted by the constant growth of international communism, have bred a new fear and insecurity in the world.

"Free peoples were alarmed by the outright military pressure the Soviet Union brought to bear upon Iran. They were shocked by the domination through Soviet-supported minorities of Poland, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania, and the almost total suppression of individual freedoms in those countries. The reality of the threat implied in these actions was brought home again in the sudden destruction of democratic government in Czechoslovakia, the manipulated communist pressures on Greece and Turkey, the continued division of Korea, Soviet intransigence in Germany, and the recent blockade of Berlin calculated to force the western occupying powers out of that city in violation of agreements.

"These events, and the systematic obstruction of the Security Council by the Soviet bloc, have turned attention toward those portions of the United Nations charter which express the purposes of the United Nations 'to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats of the peace'."

It means that the President of the United States had intended to write a message recommending to Congress the recognition of a state of war with the Soviet Union, he need not have looked elsewhere for phraseology to describe aggression. Indeed, the state department document goes further than a mere recapitulation of past actions, and says:

"The program recognizes that the free nations of Europe, by virtue of their present economic and political condition and their geographic situation, stand under present threat of the military power of the Soviet Union and its satellites."

Does this mean that the United States is discarding all other forms of international relations as less desirable and putting instead an emphasis on military force as the way to frighten a would-be aggressor into submission? Does it mean that the Russians now will conclude that the die has been cast and that they too must increase their armaments?

These are questions that are more important than the quantity of aid furnished. They emerge from the blunt language of the Department of State's pronouncement. The decision to mobilize military force to compel another sovereign state—Russia—either to disarm or to modify its policies throughout the world. The consequences may not be fully measured at once.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 26—Barney Ruditzky, a retired detective of the gangster squad of the New York police, has been represented as a righteous man in certain gratuitous publicity by "columnists" of the amusement industry and the criminal underworld. These are overlapping realms, especially in Hollywood. These journalists are not always accurate and their impressions, if sincere, are not reliable. Some may be naive. Some are vengeful.

Mr. Ruditzky is a partner or front for other principals in the operation of a duxe restaurant and gangsters' resort in the Strip, a bad-lands area in Los Angeles, where Mickey Cohen and others, including an actress who thus far appears to have been blameless, were shot last Wednesday. The place is currently called Sherry's.

Under a letterhead reading "Sherry's 9039 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles, a few weeks ago, Mr. Ruditzky wrote a derogatory article in the character of his partner, naming no name, however, although Cohen has been named by others. This was puzzling and I have not yet reasoned out an explanation. Why would a retired fiduciary, soliciting and enjoying the confidence of active gangsters in their cities, become the business partner of a notorious person with an underworld background?

Two years ago, just after the murder of Benjamin, or Bugsy, Siegel, who was running the $3,000,000 underworld hotel and gambling plant at Las Vegas, Nev., Mr. Ruditzky revealed that he was a confidential, or undercover, collector of bad debts for Siegel.

This was legal activity, for Ruditzky was running a detective and collection agency, but the association of a policeman and the foremost gangster of the time in mutual business was remarkable.

Mr. Ruditzky said Siegel had been worried by losses of the house, operated by a mob or syndicate of gangsters with nominal headquarters in the east. In conversation with Ruditzky, Siegel rejected a suggestion of collusion between the winners and his dealers.

"The kind of people that are winning are not the kind that would work with anybody," Siegel said to Ruditzky.

The question in the mind of the examiner was whether Siegel's partners in the syndicate might have killed him on suspicion that he was losing their money to his own agents.

"Did you hear about five fellows from the east beating him for $200,000 in one night?" Ruditzky was asked.

"No, I heard a fellow by the name of, I believe, Brown beat him for about $24,000. He is from the east, New York and Florida. He is a professional gambler. We locked him up for bootlegging in prohibition days and I heard Gus Greenbaum beat him for some money. There was conversation about somebody beating him pretty bad."

As to individual employees of the Flamingo, Mr. Ruditzky said he knew about 90 per cent, including Monk Shaffer, of Detroit.

Shaffer was one of the partners in the Colonial Inn, in Florida. He was a partner in two places they had in Union City, N. J.

"Was Bugsy financially interested in those places?"

"Yes, there was a combination of about 35 or 40 from the east and midland states who have controlled gambling pretty well throughout the East, Florida and New Jersey. There was Bugsy, his partner, Myer Lansky, Jake Lansky, Abe Zwillman and Doc Harris from Newark, Nigger Dan Rosen and Harry Rosen from Philadelphia—brothers-in-law, Phil Kastel and Frank Castello from New Orleans. Kastel owns the Beverly Club in New Orleans. Gambling. Frank Castello is his partner. They have slot machines throughout New Orleans and the east. Then you have Sweeney from Boston, Eddie McLaughlin from New York, who is now in the Flamingo. Artie Bieler from Florida and New York works there. Packy Koffman works there. Hynde Siegel, from New York—no relation to Benny.

"Monk Shaffer was interested in Flamingo and the eastern places and there is a fellow named Tony Ruddy. His right name is Moe Kanowitz, who was a partner of Moe Dimples Wilensky, who was shot and killed in New York."

"What is Ruddy's business now?"

"Cat and suit business in New York. Manufacturing. In fact, all the old companions of Benny Siegel are in coat and suit business. There was Joey Miller, Barney Gold, who died a natural death."

Mr. Ruditzky ran on in entertaining vein from the standpoint of the layman, discussing hitherto rivalries, partnerships, friendships and casually dropping fearsome

Questions-Answers

Q—Is it true that the U. S. flag flies 24 hours a day at Taos, N. M.?

A—Special permission has been granted to keep the flag flying day and night over the town of Taos, N. M. to carry on the tradition that the flag has flown above the Plaza since 1861. It is not flown by proclamation of the President of the United States.

Q—Why is the inside of a thermometer silvered?

A—The silvering inside a thermometer prevents loss of heat by reflecting heat waves back into the contained fluid.

Q—What President officially designated June 14 as Flag Day?

A—June 14 was definitely established as Flag Day by proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson, issued May 30, 1916.

These are difficult days. To get along one has to be a contortionist. First of all, he's got to keep his back to the wall, and his ear to the ground. He's expected to put his shoulder to the wheel, his nose to the grindstone, keep a level head and both feet on the ground. And, at the same time have his head in the clouds, so he can look for the silver lining.

Girl, 20, Lives Following Plunge

New York, July 27 (AP)—A 20-year-old girl plunged from the Brooklyn Bridge, landed in the East River about 100 feet below and was alive today—one of a few to survive the leap.

The girl, Grace Cakouras, of 1111 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, was listed in fair condition at Cumberland Hospital, Brooklyn.

She was pulled from the water by the crew of a tugboat. Police said she was discharged last week from the observation ward at Bellevue Hospital.

Back to Work Two Days After Removing Appendix

Telluride, Colo., July 27 (AP)—Two days after removing his own appendix, Dr. George C. Balderston went back to work "feeling fine."

Dr. Balderston said yesterday he performed the operation Sunday "to get a first hand reaction of a patient to local anesthesia. And I wanted to study post-operative effects."

He called in a friend, Dr. Richard Gladman, to stand by while he performed the surgery at the American Legion Hospital. Dr. Gladman administered a spinal anesthetic.

It took Dr. Balderston about 45 minutes to perform the operation in a sitting position without mirrors. He closed the incision with clamps and stitches.

Dr. Balderston said his own experience proved patients should "get back on their feet as soon as possible after surgery."

Bel Goes to Church
St. Petersburg, Fla. The church is in the process of being built and until it is finished, services are being held in the basement.

As Pegler Sees It

names in the workaday manner of a grocer discussing his trade. Now came an interesting passage. They were discussing the Siegel killing and speculating. Yes, Ruditsky said, it looked like the sort of job that the Fischettis, of Chicago, would do. They have been in gambling and narcotics. Siegel was shot with a rifle. That would suggest the Fischettis temperament.

"Was there any feud between Buggy and Mickey?" Meaning Cohen.
"I don't know. I don't think Mickey would have nerve enough. That was a man-sized job. He was a pretty bad kid back east in Brooklyn, but I think he would have been a little afraid to tackle that job, knowing the tie-up throughout the country."

"Do you think he might have it done?"

"That he might. He had some pretty good trigger men with him."
Far be it from a layman to attempt to interpret the social, ethical and business relations of such people, Damon Runyon might have known the answers.

State Documents Herald Freedom Train

Freedom Train
Here Aug. 16, 17

Priceless documents harking back to the days when the United States was struggling for the freedom it now enjoys will be on display in Kingston when the New York State Freedom Train appears here August 16 and 17.

The Kingston Daily Freeman, through arrangement with the New York State Freedom Train Commission, is bringing the train here at a cost of $200 per day. There is no admission charged to see the exhibit.

One of the most interesting documents that will be displayed on the Freedom Train records the minutes of the first Albany Committee on Correspondence.

Just when the committee was formed is a moot question. Minutes of the committee refer to its first meeting on January, 1775, and to a former committee which had met in November and December 1774.

At the beginning the committee apparently regarded itself as a military committee to assist in recruiting and supporting troops. It was particularly not to interfere with civil and judicial functions of government.

Owed Powers to People
The committee of revolutionaries never forgot it owed its powers to the people who elected it and no suggestion is found that members attempted to continue in power beyond the time for which they were chosen.

The committee regarded as in its province everything pertaining to the successful prosecution of the war. Their activities included:

Raising, drafting, equipping, disciplining, stationing and paying the troops; making exemptions from military duty; punishment of spies; support of the poor; supervision of construction, from barracks to hospitals; regulation of prices; regulation and encouragement of trade; handling of appeals to control housing difficulties; fixing wages; prevention of hoarding; control and issuance of paper money; rationing of food, particularly of wheat and preventing its distillation into whiskey; supervision of election, maintaining law and order, etc.

Met Last in 1799
Even after the central committee of the Provincial Congress and the State Legislature had been selected, the Albany Committee continued to function. The last recorded meeting is dated August 16, 1799.

Of the local county committees of "safety, protection and correspondence," Albany's is the only one of New York state for which the large part of the minutes are in existence.

A golden opportunity just came my way to fire a lot of questions at Wilbur Stark and Jerry Layton, who are package producers of radio and television shows. You probably are familiar with their "Scattergood Buines" radio show, and Mr. Stark's wife, Kathi Norris, has what I believe is the only hour television show.

I wanted to know why some of the television shows are so smashy. Certainly some of them I have seen could be improved upon. The boys were quick to defend all television producers. They told me that a perfect show takes a lot of time and costs a good deal of money—and as yet television lacks both time and money. Rehearsals are a problem because there are not enough studios, but principally there are not enough cameras. Before they left I began to sympathize with the poor television man and his many problems.

I told them that one of these days they ought to present some of the bridge player's problems on television. Suppose that a television audience were given the North and South cards in today's hand. I am sure that most of them would make the mistake, after winning the opening lead in dummy with the ace of spades, of taking the heart finesse. When it loses, West will cash the queen of spades and set the contract.

This is not a difficult problem for the beginner, if he stops to think. The opening lead must be won with the ace. Then lead the queen of hearts, and if East does not cover, go up with the ace. Take three rounds of clubs, discarding the losing spade, and all West can take is his king of hearts.

INVADING ENGLAND—A fierce-looking Viking assumes the pose of his ancestors when they invaded England 1500 years ago. He stands at the prow of a replica of the original craft that will bring him and his companions from Copenhagen to invade English shores. The trip, planned by British and Danish travel associations, will commemorate the original landing. The modern Vikings will land on the beaches of Kent; then sail their craft up the Thames to London.

Glad to Lose Business

Gunnison, Colo. (AP)—There's no profit in re-selling stamps so the First National Bank is glad it's out of the "postoffice" business. Tellers were puzzled by a flood of tourists asking for stamps, mailing schedules and such until one visitor finally noticed that an arrow sign, intended to point to the postoffice around a corner, had been moved by the wind until it pointed directly at the bank.

ULSTER PARK

Ulster Park, July 26—The Reformed Church will be closed until the last Sunday in August. The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Christiana and family are on vacation. Miss Margaret Eiler of Albany was guest soloist at the services on the 24th.

Ulster Grange 969 will hold its annual picnic on Wednesday, July 27 at 6 p. m. on the Oxholm estate at Esopus. A large attendance is urged.

The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held in the hall on Wednesday, Aug. 3. This is to be an important session to plan for the annual fair scheduled August 17 in Forsyth Park, Kingston. The August committee for refreshments and care of the hall consists of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lorin Lefever, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Strebel, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Oxholm, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Katatsky and Mrs. Margaret Witt. Richard Gendreau, Jr., is spending a week with his cousin Frederick Kristeller, II, at Dreamland Farm, Kyserville.

The fair and supper held last week by Ulster Grange was well patronized.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Winfield, Jr., of Stony Point spent Saturday with their parents in Ulster Park.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. DuMont, Jr., spent Thursday at River Head. Mrs. C. C. DuMont, Sr., of Albany was their guest for several days last week.

This community was saddened by the tragic deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Terwilliger. The family has many friends in this place.

Use Old Ruse on Reds

Prague (AP)—Czechs trying to trick their present Communist rulers are using an old ruse they employed on their former Nazi occupiers. It's like the old gag of "Grandmother died" that Americans use to get the afternoon off to attend the first game of the baseball season. The Czech version is "Auntie has died—hurry home." During the German occupation such telegrams helped people on forced labor to get out of camp. Now some fathers and mothers are sending such telegrams to their children who are on harvest brigade (volunteer workers) in the Prague region of the Czechoslovak Youth Union.

Nantucket Fire Checked; Picnicker Pays Fine of $100

Nantucket, Mass., July 27 (AP)—A forest fire which for a time threatened buildings at Nantucket Airport was reported under control today.

Seven horn blasts, an emergency signal, were sounded yesterday when a smoldering fire broke out anew in seven places. Some 300 volunteers quickly responded and brought the flames under control.

The blaze, traced by fire officials to a Sunday picnic fire, has burned more than 2,600 acres of island woodland.

A short time before the fire broke out yesterday, Frederick Tillstrand, about 50, of New York city, was fined the maximum penalty of $100 in District Court for setting a fire in the open without a permit. Fire Chief Archibald Cartwright said Tillstrand's charcoal picnic burner ignited the dry woodland.

Violation Is Charged

BARKLEY'S FRIEND

Vice-President Alben Barkley flew to St. Louis, July 24 for an almost unnoticed social call. He was there to see Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley (above), a St. Louis widow he met recently in Washington. Her husband, who died in 1945, was general counsel for the Wabash railroad. The vice-president was on the way from Minneapolis to Washington when he dropped in. Some guests at a luncheon for him said it was "supposed to be sort of secret," but the secret wasn't kept.

Marbletown Man Takes Own Life

Hamilton Gillespie, 70, Marbletown farmer committed suicide Tuesday afternoon on his farm by shooting himself in the left side with a .12 gauge shotgun. Death was immediate, according to Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, who investigated.

Sergeant Arthur A. Rolly and troopers from the Lake Katrine barracks investigated. Tuesday afternoon Mr. Gillespie, who has been in poor health and had been despondent for some time because he was unable to work as usual, investigating officers said, asked his wife to go to Stone Ridge on an errand. While she was gone Mr. Gillespie took the gun and walked some 50 feet from the house where he apparently lay down, removed his slippers and placed the gun against his body. Coroner Kelly said he had apparently fired the gun with his toe.

When Mrs. Gillespie returned from the village she found the body and summoned aid. Sergeant Rolly responded and Coroner Kelly was called. Coroner Kelly said death was due to suicide by shotgun. The remains were taken in charge by the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home at Kerhonkson.

Dr. Francis Galvin of Rosendale was summoned and pronounced the man dead. Mr. Gillespie had suffered a couple of strokes and had not been in good health.

Coroner Kelly said the gun was found a short distance away from the body where it had either been thrown or the shot was fired or was kicked by the explosion. The act was committed about 2:30 o'clock.

15,000 Legionnaires Converge on Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Legionnaires swarmed into Buffalo today.

More than 15,000 were expected ahead of the opening tonight of the 31st annual convention of the New York Department of the American Legion.

Three other groups, the State Auxiliary, 40 & 8 and 8 & 40, will be meeting simultaneously.

Regular convention sessions begin tomorrow and end Saturday. It was considered in convention circles that Louis Drago, New York city attorney, and Mrs. James W. Murray of East Aurora will be unopposed for the posts of department chairman and auxiliary president.

Rural Line Plans Near Completion

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation nears completion of its postwar program to expand electric facilities for rural customers, company officials announced today. Since August, 1945, Central Hudson has added 486 miles to its rural electric distribution system. To accomplish this it has installed more than 14,000 poles, the total cost mounting up into many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The result today is that approximately 99 per cent of rural and farm customers in the company's franchise area are on its power lines.

The peak of rural postwar construction came in 1947 when Central Hudson built 192 miles of line or 3.7 miles per week. In comparison, during the first six months of this year, 30 miles of line were constructed at an average of 1.1 miles per week.

Commenting on trends in rural line construction work, E. T. Strong, Central Hudson district manager, said: "For Central Hudson the big postwar push for rural line extension is at an end. The job has been done and we are now back to what could be called a normal rate. We have extended our lines until our service is available to almost everyone who needs it and future line construction will depend largely on construction of new buildings by rural, suburban, and farm customers."

Will Sentence Two In Baby's Case

Poughkeepsie, July 27—Sentence will be imposed September 12 against Dominic Frank Rabbottini, 28, and his wife, Dolores Virginia, 21, of the Rosendale road, Kingston, who pleaded guilty in Dutchess county court Tuesday on a charge of unlawfully omitting to provide for a child.

The charge, which is a violation of Section 482 of the Penal Law, was filed against the couple after Mrs. Rabbottini fled from the Highland Hospital, Beacon, June 20, less than 24 hours after her baby was born.

According to hospital officials, Mrs. Rabbottini had eluded nurses and other members of the hospital staff by going down a fire escape.

A charge of abandonment, a violation of Section 482, a misdemeanor, was reduced yesterday by District Attorney Grady after a conference with Judge Schwartz and Milton Epstein, Beacon attorney representing the couple.

Judge Schwartz adjourned the case until September 12 when he will receive a report from the county probation officer. He will impose sentence at that time.

Twenty-four each have been reported in Manhattan and the Bronx, and four cases in Richmond. In the 1948 severe epidemic 3,657 cases were reported in July. In 1931 there were 620 cases reported in July.

Kennedy was found dead in the woods near his Oak Hill summer home with a bullet wound in the right temple. It had penetrated the brain.

JELLIED SOUP TEMPTS APPETITES

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Well-flavored homemade jellied soups make ideal first courses for summer meals. They look cool and inviting and perk up appetites. Apricot jellied soup is a delicate idea borrowed from Scandinavian cuisine.

Apricot Jellied Soup

(4 servings)
One 12-ounce can apricot nectar, 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, water, 4 tablespoons lime juice.

Soften gelatin in ½ cup of the apricot nectar. Add water to remaining apricot nectar to make 2 cups. Heat liquid; add to softened gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lime juice. Pour into pan; chill until firm. To serve, break up lightly with a fork or cut into cubes. Pile into bouillon cups and garnish with finely chopped mint leaves.

Herbs and other seasonings make very special dishes of more familiar tomato and bouillon jellied soups. In these two recipes, liquid from canned or home-cooked vegetables can replace part of the tomato juice or the water.

Tomato Jellied Soup

(4 servings)
One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1 No. 2 can tomato juice, 3 onion slices, 1 bay leaf, 1 sprig parsley, ½ cup coarsely cut celery leaves, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 cloves, 4 peppercorns, 1 tablespoon mild vinegar.

Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold tomato juice. Combine remaining ingredients; simmer 10 minutes.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, July 26—Recently, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard DeLong was the scene of a family reunion, the occasion being also in the nature of a birthday celebration for Mrs. DeLong's elder sons, Joseph and David Farrell, aged 19 and 18, respectively. Other guests included Margaret Clarke, mother of Mrs. DeLong and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moshier and two children, all of New Rochelle. These, together with Carl and Robert Farrell, younger sons, made up the visiting party. Joe has been in the U. S. Marine Corps for three years and is stationed at the Oakland, Calif., base, while David is employed at Zena. It was the first time the four brothers and their mother had been together in several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sorenson and children of New York were week-end guests at the Algot Olson camp along the Ridge Road.

Mrs. George Barclay, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Martin Guinack of Ashokan, attended the W.S.C.S. July meeting and was presented with a quilt top by the ladies. Mrs. Barclay, oldest member of the local Methodist women's society, formerly resided at Ashokan village and still earlier made her farm home on the present Pitcairn place in the Tonche Mountain neighborhood.

Following report of rattlesnakes coming down from the mountains around Port Jervis as a result of the hot dry weather, comes now a story along that line from West Davenport. Clarence Bell, driving to his work in Oneonta, saw the reptile in the road, ran it over a couple of times and finally had to use a fence stake to subdue the snake, which measured 54 inches and sported 11 rattles. Not a very pleasant customer to tangle with, even when in a car.

John Orr, well-known Kingston traveling produce dealer, was a week-end caller at the home of his friend George Keider in the village center.

Mrs. G. Pullman and children of Kingston are occupying one of the Henry Gebelin "Twin Gables" apartments near the railroad viaduct, pending completion of their new home in the city.

Grading and ditching operations have been resumed along the south side of the new section of the Ontario Trail at Temple's Pond. This is the tricky spot where men and machines labored in clay mud for weeks during the wet weather of last spring and early summer. The job there apparently is going to be done "for keeps" this time.

Workmen are engaged on the annual job of cutting brush along the Olive town highways. The local scythemen include George Nichols, foreman; Fred Markie, Ray Cudney and Joseph DeWitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adsit have acquired one of the Oldsmobile sedans. Mrs. L. Tuel of New Jersey is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bush of the aerator park neighborhood. The former Lena Bush is having a birthday on Tuesday, July 26, while that of her brother, Arthur, fell on Sunday, July 24.

Special attractions at the W.S.C.S. annual fair Wednesday evening, August 3, will include Fred L. VanDeusen, Kingston magician, and the Port Ewen three-man band. Looks like a big night at Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rossman and assistants cared for some 65 city guests at their boarding house over the week-end. The Rossmans work hard and are doing well in their new business venture as of last year.

Birthdays coming along this week include that of William J. Green, well known Ashokan resident, of long standing; Will's natal anniversary falls on Friday, July 29. He is a native of Olive, his boyhood farm home having been between the present Shokan village and the dividing weir bridge, and has spent most of his life in this section, the exception being a residence of several years in Woodstock where he kept store. Wilbur "Bill" Sherwood, Poughkeepsie business man and frequent visitor to the reservoir country, is currently handicapped in his distribution work by a sprained ankle. Bill brings along an assistant for the time being.

Guests at the H. J. Gebelin tourist home this month included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lorenz of Brooklyn, who spent two weeks here; Mr. and Mrs. Morgan J. Naught, Elizabeth, N. J., and William Punchman of Jersey City.

Drop India Title on Coins

London (AP)—New coins being issued by the British mint for the first time since 1895, are appearing without the abbreviations Ind. Imp. (Emperor of India) in the king's title. India achieved her independence in August, 1947, but still remains within the British commonwealth.

Campaign Song

"Memphis Blues," which started the "blues" fad, was written in 1909 by W. C. Handy as a campaign tune for E. C. Crump, of Memphis, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

THE ICEMAN COMETH TO THE RESCUE—Ralph Bailey of a Ludlow, Mass., ice company makes a stop at an artificial pond each day and delivers a half ton of ice to the fish. So far, according to Al Fuller, who built the pond, the stunt has saved many fish from death in the tepid water. Young bathers on hand don't seem to object to lowering the temperature of the water either.

Three Judges Are Announced for Rhinebeck Fair

Two southern Dutchess executives and one Poughkeepsie official will judge industrial and mercantile exhibits at the Dutchess county fair to be held at Rhinebeck, August 30-September 3 inclusive. They are Mayor Lewis Bolton, Beacon; Leonard J. Supple, chairman of the county board of supervisors, and Mayor Horace S. Graham, Poughkeepsie.

The mercantile and industrial exhibits will use all concession space in two big buildings. Exhibitors in the Merchants and Manufacturers Building No. 1 include many Poughkeepsie area factories and leading stores.

Grange exhibits, one of the many eye-catching features of the Dutchess fair, will set a new entry record this year with 20 subordinate and juvenile granges exhibiting.

Subordinate granges entered include Silver Lake, Rhinebeck, Fallkill, Stone Church, Chapel Corners, Stanford, Pine Plains, Upton Lake, Pleasant Valley, Red Hook, Rock City, Mount Hope, Poughkeepsie, Arthursburg and Oak Grove. Juvenile granges entered are

Rhinebeck, Rock City, Mount Hope, Red Hook and Pine Plains. Entertainment features in connection with this year's fair include six acts of vaudeville provided by George Hamid, New York, and Horace Heidi's stars in review, included in the latter show will be some of the stars who have been heard on Heidi's Sunday night programs throughout the country. Other entertainment features include Jack Kochman's thrill show on Saturday afternoon and night, two days of harness racing, a two day horse show and a one-day pony show, the former scheduled Thursday and Friday of fair week and the latter on Wednesday.

Opening and closing days, Tuesday and Saturday, have been designated as children's days. Children will be admitted free of charge on these days.

Plans are under way for a big fireworks display on the final day and evening of the fair.

Van Praag's Novel Gets Good Review

Woodstock, July 27—“Day Without End,” a first novel by local author Van Praag, published this week by William Sloane Associates has received excellent reviews in the New York Herald Tribune and New York Times.

The author, born in New York in 1920, has been a truck and taxi salesman, a World's Fair lecturer on Diesel engines, a tentative and temporary job, an odd moment student at Columbia University, and a soldier. He served for five years in the U. S. Army during World War 2. After enlisting as a private, he was promoted through the ranks until he was commissioned second lieutenant. He fought in France as a platoon leader, was wounded and returned home a casualty. He also served in the 44th, 86th and 42nd divisions.

His experience in the battle for Normandy provided the background for the novel “Day Without End.” He has written several television scripts, a documentary film, an anti-war play called “No Difference At All,” produced by the Playwrights Educational Theatre in 1943, and several short stories. He is already at work on his second novel.

Hiram Haydn, in his review for the New York Herald Tribune, wrote “Day Without End” is a book which is likely to fill the average honest reader with an impatient rage. Rage—that, century, decent ordinary people must endure this hideous nightmare of terror and suffering. Impotent—because of his unhappy certainty that the people who most need to read this book, that portion of the military and the politicians and the vested interests everywhere who push on with blithe brutality to yet another war, and the bigoted and stupid and unimaginative who shout and curse and threaten when the strings of propaganda are pulled, will never read it. But that is not Mr. Van Praag's fault; he has done his part superbly.

“Day Without End” is a novel of a day in combat. It is a vivid account of the actual feel of battle.

And, continues the reviewer, “what is equally impressive, the day's action is as clear as it is vivid. Since the actual narrative plot consists only of the military events of this day, such clarity is crucial to the element of suspense. And in this respect, the book is masterly. Without ever substituting the military historian's treatment for that of the novelist, the author makes each maneuver brilliantly clear, and its outcome a matter of immediate personal importance.”

Craftsmen Display Work of Students

Woodstock, July 27—There is an exhibition of student weavers' work being shown currently at the Woodstock Guild of Crafts-

The exhibit includes numerous patterns with a variety of color and material combinations which have been woven by Estella Henkel, Texas; Katrina Miller, Wittenberg and Agnes Smith, New Jersey. Miss Henkel is an instructor in the Dallas, Texas, School of Crafts and has come to Woodstock to study weaving during the summer months with Floyd LaVigne, nationally prominent weaver and designer. Miss Smith drives here from her New Jersey home every Tuesday and Thursday to study with LaVigne.

Of special interest too are the stunning tiles and bowls of unusual shapes and rare coloring and designs created by Louise Brokenshaw; silver jewelry created by Edith Sachar and Douglas Drake; ceramic bowls and vases suitable for lamp bases by Maud Petersham; ceramic jewelry by William Sales and hand blocked linens by Lisle Crumner.

Sales of autographed books by Woodstock authors have required much reordering, we are told. This is particularly true of the children's books. Among those on the shelves are 5,000 Years of Glass and 5,000 Years of Germany, created by Frances Rodgers and the late Alice Beard; Gouache Painting by Arnold Blanch, Create Something, and Design Techniques by Felix Payant; Intelligent Drawing, Edward L. Chase; The Mode in Costume, and The Mode in Hats and Headpieces R. Turner Wilcox; The Decorative Arts of Sweden, Iona Plath; Linoleum Cuts of Original Designs and Motives for Teachers and Students A. G. Eschlin; Painting for Enjoyment by Doris Lee; and Arnold Blanch, The children's group includes the well known series by Maud and Miska Petersham and Helen and Alf Evers.

Also on the children's shelves are books by Nellie McCaslin, Owen Page, Phil Stong illustrated by Doris Lee; Marion Bulard, and Helen Garrett illustrated by Leo Pottli. Books by Ernest Brace, Hony Merton Robinson and Sara Robbins are also available.

Cooperative Name Cooperative Lists More Consignors

Woodstock, July 27—Clementine Nessel, well-known Kingston musician, is listed among the several new consignors at Crafts Cooperative. Miss Nessel has created something new in plastic bibs for babies. The Cooperative reports young mothers are most enthusiastic about this item.

The colonial type hurricane lamps fitted with candles or wired for electricity are in great demand. These are designed and made by Edward L. Thatcher and bear the mark of the expert craftsman.

On display, too, are several new designs in Alice Fischer's ceramic jewelry. Mrs. Eleanor McCaffery, Kingston, has introduced interesting and original models in silver and copper ear rings and bracelets. These are in addition to the beautiful hand-hammered aluminum type for which she is well known.

Among the list of new consignors are Wendell Nason, Kingston, woodcarver; Paul Vulture, zodiac sign copper and brass ash trays and silver jewelry; Arnold Craf, Saugerties, cabinetmaker displaying modern type lamp bases; Herman Holzman, Mt. Tremper, woodworker; Margery Main, Hurley, lamp bases; Eva Corbin, Saugerties, trays; attractive dresses by Dora Follen, High Woods; and hand painted trays consigned by Frances Elliott, Katherine Shults and Augusta Reed, Saugerties.

The shop is open daily through Saturday from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Forum Thursday

Woodstock, July 27—A last minute check with the program committee disclosed that the third speaker for the Woodstock Forum has not yet been obtained. Regard- less, however, the Forum will be held Thursday evening, July 28 in the Town Hall at 8:30. The topic will be “Is Our Freedom of Speech Threatened?” and the speakers who have accepted the invitation to appear are Sol Marcus, legal counsel for the Automobile Workers Union, and Herman Haupt Chapman, professor emeritus, Yale University.

To Meet Friday

Woodstock, July 27—A regular meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club will be held Friday evening, July 29, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Muller, Woodstock-West Hurley road.

Maverick Music Is Enjoyed on Sunday

Woodstock, July 27—A good sized audience turned out to hear

Pierre Henrotte, violinist, the director of the Maverick Sunday concert, and Madame Jacqueline Marcu, concert pianist, perform three sonatas last Sunday afternoon in the Concert Hall.

The first work was Bach's Sonata in F Minor provided an opportunity for Henrotte to display his technical ability. A passage written for double and triple stops was well rendered. In contrast to the first Sonata, were the other two.

The “First Sonata in D Minor” by Saint-Saens has a very brilliant score which gave Madame Marcu a chance to demonstrate her sureness and flawless technique.

The Frank Sonata in A Major has a lyric quality which was well brought out by both performers. Those present were enthusiastic in their applause bringing Madame Marcu and Henrotte back for repeated bows.

Anita Mower Is Recent Graduate

Woodstock, July 27—Anita John Mower, daughter of Mrs. Esther J. Mower of Woodstock, was one of 3,592 students recently graduated from the University of Minnesota. The class was the largest in the university's history.

Miss Mower received the degree of bachelor of arts. She majored in international relations, while attending the university in preparation for foreign service work with the State Department or with an international special- ized agency.

At present Miss Mower is employed as an assistant in the interdepartmental International Relations Center at the university. The research and information center is also the official Minnesota United Nations information center. Miss Mower took part in several co-curricular activities while attending the university. She

Wasp Cure Is Painful

Des Moines, Ia.—Elwyn Pearson's plan for getting rid of wasps proved more painful than stings. The wasps, had been stinging his stock in the pasture. He discovered the nest in a large gas pipe used as a fence brace. Pearson threw gasoline into the pipe, and lit a match. There was a blast which threw fire over him, result- ing in burns that required hospital attention.

Tetanus Immunization

Is immunization against tetanus (lockjaw) important for your child, too? Very important. The immunized child only needs a small “booster dose” to protect him if he is in danger of tetanus. . . . the unimmunized child will have to be given a special serum if he is in danger of tetanus. Your child may be so “sensitive” to this serum that it might be difficult to give it to him.

112,000 Families Pay Rent Increase in Jersey

Newark, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Approximately 112,000 families have had their rent boosted since the new rent control law became effective April 1, Housing Ex- pediter Tighe L. Woods said last night.

The average boost was $8.40 a month, or 18 per cent, he told a meeting sponsored by the New Jersey Tenants' Council.

He said the act “virtually as- sures landlords a profit,” while at the same time protecting tenants against unreasonable rents or il- legal evictions.

Many evictions have been pre- vented, and in 22,000 cases land- lords have been forced to restore discontinued services or cut rents, Wood said.

Clare Tree Major Plays Unique Ideas For Young Children

When Junior League of Kingston presents a Clare Tree Major production for the children of the city September 24 at Kingston High School, the youngsters will have the opportunity of seeing one of the few children's theatre programs in the world. The group presents plays for children from six to fourteen that deal with the lives and problems of children.

Clare Tree Major, recently returned from a trip to England and the continent, states that there are virtually no children's theatre companies comparable to the six units traveling throughout America under the Clare Tree Major management. She made the trip to plan possible exchanges with European groups but was unable to make satisfactory arrangements.

In Europe Mrs. Major found that all young people are called children up to about 18 years of age and children's theatre inevitably emphasizes entertainment for the older children or those from 14 to 18. About the youngest performance, Mrs. Major said, was "Twelfth Night" played by the Royal Academy graduates in England, with comedy emphasis suited to the ten year olds. Both in Paris and Belgium, Clare Tree Major found the same situation; the theme, action and plot keyed to the teenage level—clearly above the "child" interest.

The Jeune Jacques Theatre in Paris is sponsored by commercial houses according to Mrs. Major and is not theatre as presented in America. The sponsor's products were advertised in the show and audience participation was pronounced.

There is neither meaningful entertainment for little people, nor develops in them a love and understanding of good theatre," Mrs. Major said in reporting her trip.

One group in Scotland offers a variety program for tiny tots. The Old Vic, Mrs. Major found is going through a phase of reconstruction, with both Oliver and Richardson withdrawing from the board. Exchange with the Young Vic or the Glynnbourne Company is under discussion but will not be possible until new plays have been developed which would be of interest to American children, she announced.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride wore a cocktail length gown of white frosted tulle. Her short veil was attached to a crown of white flowers and she wore lace mitts trimmed with nylon. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Daisy Decker, friend of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a cocktail length dress of light pink with matching mink and pink hat. She carried pink roses and baby's breath.

Richard Decker was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for 50 guests. The couple left for New York city. For traveling the bride wore a pink gabardine suit trimmed with silver buttons, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Clintondale Honors Isidora Livingston, Teacher at Community School for 52 Years

More than 250 present and former residents of Clintondale gathered Saturday night at the Grange Hall to honor Miss Isidora Livingston who retired in June as vice principal and second teacher at the Clintondale school. She had served the school continuously for 52 years.

During her long career as a teacher Miss Livingston has held but four positions. She taught at the Butterville district school a year; at Plutarch and Willkows Corners for a year each then went to Clintondale where for more than half a century she continued her work.

Many of her former pupils were present including Van T. Pine of New Paltz who was one of the first pupils she taught when she held her first teaching position at Butterville. A number of the former pupils came from distant points for the party. In some instances Miss Livingston had taught three generations.

Also present were past principals of the Clintondale school including Mr. Shields, Mr. Craw and Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. Ira Zimmerman who succeeds Miss Livingston also attended.

The guest of honor was presented with numerous bouquets of flowers and the people of the community gave her an electric sewing machine. The presentation was made by Alfred Zimmerman of Clintondale, a former pupil.

Ralph Johnson, district superintendent, spoke briefly referring to the faithful service of Miss Livingston, her efficient work as a teacher and her record of students who today are holding responsible positions. Mr. Johnson extended to Miss Livingston best wishes for a long and happy retired life.

Announcements during the program were made by Mrs. Mary Mount, principal of the school. Old songs were sung dating back to the Old Red Schoolhouse and including the old time favorite, "Readin' and Writin' and 'Rithmetic."

WHAT ABOUT 'HELLO'?

As evidence of a widespread campaign against the answering of "Hello" on the telephone, this is one of several letters sent me: "The telephone company is asking its subscribers to assist in abolishing the time-taking and useless word 'Hello.' It is suggested that a ring on the telephone be answered 'Mrs. Smith' or 'John Smith,' or simply 'Smith speaking.'"

The letters sent me have not explained whether this is meant for business only or for home as well. Also, no suggestion is made for the corresponding answer for a woman. Surely she can't answer, "Smith!"

A business reply is: "X.Y.Z. Company" or "Service Department, Jones speaking"—or "Miss Jones." Instead of "Jones." In answering the telephone in a private house or apartment, I regret to have to say that it would be unwise—especially for one who is notable—to answer "Miss Star" or "Mrs. Social Leader," before hearing the voice of the one calling, since it would leave each of these defenseless if the caller were someone she did not wish to have the time to speak to.

The old-fashioned "Hello" does require the one calling to speak and, if not a known voice, the caller can say that Mrs. Jones is not at home. (According to accepted social usage, the phrase "not at home" means not at home to strangers and is the courteous way of saying that Mrs. Jones is either actually out or too busy to come to the telephone.) A fair compromise between following the suggested wishes and saying "Hello" is to answer: "Mrs. Jones' house" or "Mrs. Jones' apartment." This would be proper whether it is said by a member of the family or by an employee.

Ex-in-Law Relationships
Dear Mrs. Post: Shall I wait for my ex-in-laws to get in touch with me now that I'm back from Reno? In other words should I let our future relationship be determined by them? We have no children together, according to what I have always been so fond of them that I don't want to hurt them more than necessary.

Answer: To write the one whom you know best, and ask if the family is willing to remain friends is about the only gesture you can make since it is up to them to continue to love you or refuse to do so. The relationship undoubtedly depends on the reason for your divorce and the attitude of you and your former husband.

When writing a letter one should choose his words wisely—they reveal so many traits of character. Various types of notes are described in Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 502. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Jones Dairy Defeats Stauble's Bakery, 5-3, for Tenth Straight Win

Windburn Hurls Three-Hitter In City League

Without any fanfare or disputed plays Jones Dairy relied on the old fashioned combination of tight pitching and timely hitting to defeat Stauble's Bakery 5 to 3, for their tenth straight victory in the City Baseball League yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Bill Windburn, the senior half of the Dairy's one-two pitching punch, fashioned a three-hitter and struck out six to gain the decision over Ed McCormick. But for an occasional streak of wildness, he had the Stauble swingers under control.

McCormick pitched a long ball game, as they say in the dugout, yielding nine hits, fanning the same number and walking three. Charlie Bock collected three of the Jones safeties, with Andy Celuch getting a pair. Bill Olen tagged Windburn for two thirds of the Stauble safeties.

The Dairy men picked up their working margin in the fourth when they broke a 1-1 tie with a three run out. Andy Celuch singled, stole second and moved into third on Olen's throw into center field. Zedany's single, a walk to J. J. Berardi and Whiteaker's sacrifice set up runners at second and third and J. A. Berardi promptly chased them home with a single to left.

Later Threlk's fall. The Bakers flirted with Windburn in the last two heats but could show only two single tallies for their efforts. Windburn personally accounted for the first when he hit a batter and walked the next three.

In the seventh Jackson singled to left, Decker was safe on an error and Olen singled to short center to load the sacks and set up a potential big inning. After Windburn forced in a run by walking Brown, he slammed the door in the Stauble faces.

Red Graham Blanks Colonials, 9-0; Bridgeport Bees Sweep Twinbill

Ex-Colonial Ace Yields Four Hits

The Colonials sold Hamilton "Red" Graham to the Bridgeport Bees with the reasonable expectancy that it would furnish some much needed cash and that the old redhead would haunt them on occasions.

Graham hasn't failed them. He blanked them in a four-inning relief stint last week at the stadium in his first appearance against his old mates, and last night blanked them, 9 to 0, in the opener of a doubleheader in Bridgeport.

The Bees moved into first place by percentage points over the Bristol Owls by pounding out a 10-5 victory in the nightcap.

The Colonials are scheduled for another doubleheader tonight in Stamford.

Hurls 4-Hitter
Graham pitched four-hit ball and struck out seven, while the Bees converted five hits and seven walks off Frank Demeri and Jim Gordon into nine tallies. Three errors didn't hurt their cause any.

A five-run outburst in the sixth off Jim Gordon turned the game into a rout.

George Handy, the league's leading batter, clubbed two hits off Bridgeport, while Allen Thomaie, had a pair for the Colonials.

The Bees won the nightcap with an 11-hit attack on Ray Riescher and Tellefsen. The Colonials collected the same number off Ted Linsky but failed in five clutch hits leaving a dozen runners stranded.

Bridgeport scored four times to move ahead 5-2 in the fifth and broke the game apart with five runs off Tellefsen in the eighth.

Danny Perlmutter had three singles for the Colonials, while Elenchin, Matzer and Spozza hit safely twice each. Olson clubbed a two for the Bees.

Ralph Matzer returned to his old love—catching—in the first game in order to rest Jose Abreu for the nightcap.

Colonial Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The question in the Colonial Baseball League is not "who's on third," but "who's in first place?"

During the past week the league lead has jumped from Stamford to Bridgeport to Bristol, and now it's back in Bridgeport again.

Bristol, which held the top spot prior to last night's games, beat Poughkeepsie 6 to 4, but the Bridgeport Bees took a doubleheader from the last place Kingston Colonials 9 to 0 and 10 to 5.

This feat put them out front by three percentage points.

Third place Stamford lost ground, meanwhile, by dropping a 9-6 decision to the Waterbury Times.

Bridgeport, scoring nine runs on five hits in the seven-inning opening game last night, got masterful four-hit pitching from Hamilton "Red" Graham, purchased from Kingston last week.

Ruben Gomez, who pitched a one-hitter for Bristol in his last previous outing, was belted from the box by the Chiefs in the sixth inning last night, but Lou Cabrera saved the night for the Owls by hurling two-hit ball the rest of the way.

Like Bridgeport, Waterbury got more runs than hits in beating the Stamford Times, scoring five times in the third inning on two singles, five bases on balls and two errors.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 27 (AP)—The annual Bowler-Of-The-Year poll will close Sunday with close races looming for both the men's and women's honorary positions.

Chairman Jerry Hagan of the National Bowling Writers Association selection committee announced today that nine of the 19 men bowlers nominated and eight of the 30 women reglers are getting heavy support for their "stand-out" efforts during the 1948-49 bowling season.

In the men's division Andy Varpapa, Hempstead, N. Y., trick shot artist who was given the trophy at the ABC in Atlantic City last year, has plenty of competition from Buddy Bomar, Joe Wilman and Johnny Small of Chicago, Bill Flesch, Los Angeles, Chuck O'Donnell and George Young of Detroit, Connie Schwiegler, Madison, Wis., and Stan Slomenski of Newark, N. J.

Moses became the 86th major leaguer to win a membership card in the "2000 Club" and only the third active player to boast such a record.

The Chicago White Sox' Luke Appling has 2,658 hits to his credit and Pittsburgh's Dixie Walker 2,046 including yesterday's games. The all-time mark of 4,191 was set by Ty Cobb.

Philadelphia, July 27 (AP)—"Old man" Wally Moses holds a membership today in that exclusive fraternity of major league baseball players who have collected 2,000 or more hits.

The 38-year-old veteran of 14 seasons in the big time achieved that mark last night when he clubbed a single to right field in the fifth inning of the Philadelphia Athletics-St. Louis Browns game.

Bagatelles:

The heat does things to you. We saw Len Sickler coming toward us and scurried for air raid shelters. The basketball season can't be that close, but you never can tell with fellows like Len, and Lou Schafer, the perpetual motion guy at the Y.M.C.A. Motoring down Foxhall avenue, we spied Phil Corrado Sr., with a piece of Manila hemp in his hands and looking for a tall tree. You see what these Giants can do to their faithful!

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Nastiest quip of the week: Tom Dayitt's: If Tierney doesn't see them any better as an umpire than he did as a ball player, the rhubarbs will be plentiful! Ralph Frederick and Joe Nagy helped us spend about an hour early in the aye-m Tuesday changing of the fire on the Flatbush road and we all allowed as to how this is going to be a terrible bowling season. We did. The Giants have signed Harry Hahn, Arlington High School's brilliant south-paw. Hahn received $1000 bonus and reports for spring training. In four years at Arlington, Hahn won 25 games, lost 1 and tied one. He fanned 392 men in 235 2/3 innings, while yielding 116 hits and 109 walks. The Kingston Rifle and Pistol Club is conducting a telephone sale in order to raise funds for the purchase a site for a shooting range. The sharpshooters have been bounced around like gypsies for the past several years.

Of Men and Mice:

Jake Chichelsky, the bowling scribe, gained nine pounds and a solid coat of tan on his vacation. Joe Messinger, the PA man at the City League, recently submitted some of the finest baseball reports this desk has ever seen outside of the newspaper beat. Johnny Frederick almost converted the "double pinchie" Monday night at Ruzzo's Big Ralph Tiano led City League batters with 458 at the end of the first round. George Zedany of Jones Dairy was runnerup with 421. Bob Bush's 14 strikeouts are the seasonal high for a first contest.

Outboard speedboat races under the floodlights every Thursday at Crystal Lake, Newburgh, under the auspices of the Newburgh Police Athletic League. Ken Hyatt will lead a delegation of 100 members of the Kingston Boys Club to a Yankee Stadium safari in the near future. Byron Nelson, taking up one of Promoter George S. May's fancy side bets on sinking some eight-foot putts or less in the annual All-America Golf meet once had as much as $4,000 riding on a five-footer. Nelson blew it! Saratoga Springs is probably the most rapidly growing community in the country—in summer. For nine months of the year it has a population of 15,000. By June this swells to 20,000 and in August the count reaches 50,000. The explanation is water and horses and you know what else, or don't you. Leo "I Love My Yankees" Fuld, the Delaware avenue Yankee fanatic needs aspirins, quickly.

What is so rare as a day baseball game? As far as the moguls are concerned, it looks like the sun is the light that failed. When a Turkish football team beat a Greek squad, 2-1, in Athens, a Greek fan committed suicide. Now there's a dihard for you! Spike Van Alstyne, the old Columbia county pitcher, has a young son, Allen D., who was one of the best hitters with St. Lawrence University.

Hankus Pankus Picks the Babe:

The exploits of Larry Doby, Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams notwithstanding, Hank Greenberg believes that Babe Ruth and Jimmy Fox slugged the longest homers ever hit.

"You've heard about some balls hit by Ted and Larry Doby," Greenberg says. "Why I've hit balls myself farther than Ted ever hit in Detroit. And mine were pop flies compared with some of the Babe hit."

Greenberg testifies that he was always happy to play way back near the grass near first base whenever Ruth came to the plate. "The Babe would kill you with a bouncer if you tried to stay anywhere near the first sack."

Close Race for Bowler-of-Year

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 27 (AP)—The annual Bowler-Of-The-Year poll will close Sunday with close races looming for both the men's and women's honorary positions.

Chairman Jerry Hagan of the National Bowling Writers Association selection committee announced today that nine of the 19 men bowlers nominated and eight of the 30 women reglers are getting heavy support for their "stand-out" efforts during the 1948-49 bowling season.

In the men's division Andy Varpapa, Hempstead, N. Y., trick shot artist who was given the trophy at the ABC in Atlantic City last year, has plenty of competition from Buddy Bomar, Joe Wilman and Johnny Small of Chicago, Bill Flesch, Los Angeles, Chuck O'Donnell and George Young of Detroit, Connie Schwiegler, Madison, Wis., and Stan Slomenski of Newark, N. J.

Moses became the 86th major leaguer to win a membership card in the "2000 Club" and only the third active player to boast such a record.

The Chicago White Sox' Luke Appling has 2,658 hits to his credit and Pittsburgh's Dixie Walker 2,046 including yesterday's games. The all-time mark of 4,191 was set by Ty Cobb.

Philadelphia, July 27 (AP)—"Old man" Wally Moses holds a membership today in that exclusive fraternity of major league baseball players who have collected 2,000 or more hits.

The 38-year-old veteran of 14 seasons in the big time achieved that mark last night when he clubbed a single to right field in the fifth inning of the Philadelphia Athletics-St. Louis Browns game.

To Elect Officers

Officers to be elected are president, first and second vice-presidents, treasurer, secretary, one director for a five year term and one director for one year. The latter will fill the unexpired term of the Rev. Albert H. Shultis of Rosendale, who resigned because of the pressure of his church duties.

Present officers of the association are Morton Finch, Kingston, president; Charles Elmendorf, Rifton, first vice-president; Henry DuBois, New Paltz, treasurer; Fred C. Hagler, Kingston, secretary. The position of second vice-president is vacant.

Secretary Harder announced today that the membership in the county association has reached 59 companies and includes every village and town in the county having a fire company. The last company to join was Saxton, which joined February 15, 1949.

One of the main accomplishments of the association has been the establishment of the mutual aid system, under which any fire company in the county needing help may call Kingston fire headquarters and the nearest neighboring company will be dispatched. Only fire company officers, village or town officials may request such assistance.

000,000 of the E.C.A. spending. The roll call tally on that was 41 to 37.

Man Goes to Matteawan

Syracuse, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—A 30-year-old father, who left two small children overnight on a deserted island, has been committed to Matteawan State Hospital for the criminally insane. Judge Leo J. Yehle of children's court ordered the commitment of Donald Frazier yesterday. Frazier, a navy veteran, had pleaded guilty to a charge of endangering the lives and health of Peggy, 5, and Patrick, 3. Judge Yehle permitted him to withdraw the plea. The Onondaga county sheriff's office reported Frazier said he left the children on the Seneca River island June 25 while he went home to Port Jervis to catch up a quarrel with his wife. The children, frightened and hungry, were found the next day.

WEALTH OF NATIONS—Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, first woman treasurer of the United States, was entrusted with the nation's wealth as she signs her name to a receipt worth $27,424,541, 375.78%. The sum represents the government's currency, cash, and securities. Auditors certified the receipt down to the last two-thirds of a cent. The capital was transferred to Mrs. Clark by Michael E. Silndee, acting treasurer, who watches her sign the receipt in Washington.

HARMONIZING—Announcement has been made of the engagement of the Earl of Harewood, 26-year-old nephew of King George VI, to Marion Stein, 22-year-old Viennese-born pianist. The Earl, 11th in line to the British throne, is a son of Princess Royal Mary, the King's sister. The couple is pictured during a visit to New York.

YOU CAN GET IT FOR A KWARTJE—Even American tourists are amazed to see this outdoor eatery at the Zandvoort Beach near Amsterdam, Holland. Drop in your kwartje and take out your hot food or sandwich. A kwartje, incidentally, is the Dutch equivalent of a thin dime.

JUST HORSIN' AROUND—Mrs. Angle Polvin hitches her horse to a parking meter in Lawrence, Mass., before doing her shopping. She's well within the law too. When a somewhat confused cop issued a ticket, Mrs. Polvin complained to the traffic division. The police chief cited a traffic ordinance describing a horse as "a means of transportation." So Mrs. Polvin—and the horse—are in the clear. The cop's still confused.

Plan Is Reached

On Moving Farm

Machines on Roads

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Farm leaders and state officials have agreed on a plan to facilitate movement of heavy farm machinery over state highways.

Details of the agreement were to be announced today.

Farmers have been battling to ease restrictions, which require permits for movement of vehicles more than eight feet wide.

Governor Dewey announced the "unanimous agreement" last night following a conference with farm leaders and the heads of several state departments.

Dewey said that movement would be facilitated immediately and the regulations would be re-examined.

He reported the plan also included recommendations for legislation.

The State Farm Bureau Federation recently told Dewey that the "red tape and inconvenience" involved in getting permits was "more than farmers will tolerate."

stand for the things in our government which I think are right.
"They may lead me to be in opposition to you and to other groups within our country, but I shall always act, as far as I am able, from real conviction and from honest belief."

Never Advocated Bill
In her reply today Mrs. Roosevelt declared, "I have never advocated the Barden bill nor any other special bill on education now before the Congress. I believe, however, in federal aid to education."

The Barden bill is a substitute for a measure already passed by the Senate which would allow the states to use the federal funds for parochial and private schools if they so desired.
The Cardinal's attack on Mrs. Roosevelt brought her support from such persons as former New York State Governor Herbert H. Lehman, Bernard Baruch and the Rt. Rev. Charles K. Gliboff, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York.

New Move Starts
Meanwhile, a new move started in Congress to rescind federal aid to education from the religious controversy now surrounding it. Rep. Morton (R-Ky.) said he is drafting a bill based on the principle of state needs.

It would omit restrictions on parochial school assistance which have been denounced by Roman Catholic churches.
Mrs. Roosevelt said in her letter: "I believe that there should be freedom for every child to be educated in his own religion. In public schools it should be taught that the spiritual side of life is most important."
"I should be happy if some agreement could be reached on passages from the Bible and some prayer that could be used. The real religious teaching of any child must be done by his own church and in his own home."

Cardinal Spellman, stating that America's Catholic youth fought equally with those of all other faiths in the recent war, asked in his letter to the late President's widow: "Would you deny equality of these Catholic boys...? During the war years you visited the hospitals in many countries. Then how is it that your own heart was not purged to all prejudices by what you saw there, our sons' suffer?"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied: "I have never visited hospitals and asked or thought about the religion of any boy in any bed. I have never in a military cemetery had any different feeling about the graves of the boys who lay there. All of our boys of every race, color or creed fought for the country and they deserve our help and gratitude."

"It is not my wish to deny children anywhere equal rights or benefits. It is, however, the decision of parents when they select a private or denominational school, whether it be Episcopal, Wesleyan, Jewish or Roman Catholic."

"I can assure you that I have no prejudice. I understand the beliefs of the Roman Catholic Church very well. I happen to be a Protestant and I prefer my own church, but that does not make me feel that any one has any less right to believe as his own convictions guide him."

Says Record Speaks
Mrs. Roosevelt said that "if you carefully studied my record, I think you would not find it one of anti-Catholic or anti-any-religious group."

"I have no bias against the Roman Catholic Church and I have supported Governor Smith as governor and worked for him as a candidate for the office of President of the United States. I have supported for public office many other Roman Catholic candidates."

"You speak of the Mindezenty case. I spoke out very clearly against any unfair type of trial and anything anywhere in our country which might seem like attack on an individual because of his religious beliefs."

"I can not, however, say that in European countries the control by the Roman Catholic Church of great areas of land has always led to happiness for the people of those countries."

Cardinal Spellman said in his letter to Mrs. Roosevelt that "our record of anti-Catholicism... (is) unworthy of an American mother."
She replied: "I assure you that I have no sense of being an unworthy American mother. The final judgment, my dear Cardinal Spellman of the worthiness of all human beings is in the hands of God."

clusively a Roman Catholic school. Children attending parochial schools are, of course, taught according to the tenets of their respective churches.
"As I grow older it seems to me important that there be no great stress laid on our divisions but that we stress as much as possible our agreements."

She added: "Anyone who knows history, particularly the history of Europe, will, I think, recognize that the domination of education or of government by any one particular religious faith, is never a happy arrangement for the people."

"Spiritual leadership should remain spiritual leadership and the temporal power should not become too important in any church."

northside. The two automobiles were side by side in the street, about seven feet apart. Bullets had pierced the windshield and left front window of Lockwood's car.

Fulton Police Capt. John V. Davis said when he arrived at the scene, Judge Carpenter was leaning against his automobile. The captain said Carpenter informed him that he "had shot Lockwood" and that the attorney had run from his car to the rear of the filling station, where he had fallen into a hole.

Lockwood was removed from the excavation by police using a fire department ladder.
Davis said he found a blackjack and a .38 caliber pistol in Carpenter's car. He said he found a .25 caliber automatic in the lawyer's. It had not been fired.

Judge Carpenter was jailed on a charge of shooting another, and released on $500 bond.

Mrs. Carpenter visited briefly with Lockwood at the City Hospital, where he was carried first. She held his hand as an orderly wheeled him from the X-ray room back into the emergency clinic for further examination.

softening of the Vatican attitude toward Communist supporters.
The editorial, he said, was aimed at rebutting contentions of Communist leaders that a person could be at once a Communist and a Roman Catholic. Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti had advanced such a view in Rome, and French Communist leaders have made similar statements seeking to minimize the effect of the decree.

Test British Jet
Hatfield, England, July 27 (AP)—Britain's newest airliner, the 500-mile-an-hour jet-engine De Havilland Comet, flew for the first time today. Test Pilot John Cunningham lifted the plane a few feet off the ground and sped 500 yards as part of a test of the brakes and controls. The craft has four jet engines which are expected to give it a cruising speed of 500 miles an hour in the sub stratosphere. It is designed to carry 36 passengers and a crew of four "above the weather"—at around 40,000 feet.

Toll Tax Bill...

for an election officer to deprive a person of a federal ballot because he hasn't paid the poll tax. It mentions no specific penalty, but its backers said a penalty is provided under general civil statutes now in force.

The seven, southern poll tax states in which the bill's backers claim, hundreds of thousands of persons are disfranchised, are Arkansas, Texas, Tennessee, South Carolina, Virginia, Mississippi and Alabama.

Opponents fought the bill as an unwarranted invasion of States' Rights. They argued that the constitution reserves to the states the exclusive power to determine the qualifications of voters. Only a constitutional amendment can change that situation, they said.
The final roll-call found 151 Democrats, 121 Republicans and one American-Laborite voting for the bill and 82 Democrats and 24 Republicans opposing it.

Vince Dundee, Former Ring Champion Dies

Glendale, Calif., July 27 (AP)—Vincent (Vince) Dundee, former middleweight boxing champion, died today in a sanitarium where he had been confined since 1942. He was 41.

Sanitarium officials said death was due to multiple sclerosis. Dundee won the middleweight title by defeating Lou Brouillard in Boston in 1933, then lost it the following year to Teddy Yarosz in Pittsburgh.

Dundee had not participated in a major ring battle since 1937 when he lost to Billy Conn in Pittsburgh.

He was the brother of Joe Dundee, former welterweight titleholder, and started his boxing career in 1927.
Recently a tavern was operated in nearby Burbank under Dundee's name.

Survivors include his widow, Connie, a son, Vince, Jr., and his father, Louis Lazzara of Boston.
